SCHOOL MATTERS.

Candidates for school trustees have received comparatively little public attention during the municipal campaign. This unfortunate state of affairs is due to the fact that the rule rather than the exception. What ever the reason the deplorable fact is that while municipal contests were warm and arduous some were eagerly sought for, aspirants to the school board are commonly few and the list of names in the press of the municipal contest meagre.

Perhaps in degree this is the fault of the candidates themselves. Not all do make a trade of the campaign on a systematic and organized campaign. During the present contest they have rarely appeared on the public platform, and to many the only way to get a "who's who" as far as they are concerned. Greater activity on the part of the candidates would do no doubt secure a more even distribution of the public attention which is now monopolized by the city council, and create a more general and lively interest in school matters.

But the rule would work the other way too. The candidate may not see any reason why he should enter an actively and more or less costly and inconspicuous campaign, while the opponents do not do so, and when it seems to be the understood thing that candidates shall not do so. But if the public interest were increased steadily and closely on school matters, both during campaigns and between them, we would have more active contestants and probably more candidates offering. But whether we do or not we would have attained the main end, that is a proportionate share of public attention to this important department of civic affairs.

We extract to the school board the care and management of work actually paramount and permanent importance to the community. It seems therefore both proper and just that we should give to that work and to the manner of its discharge the attention to be expected from people toward a matter of outstanding concern to them. If the work is well done it surely merits the satisfaction of public recognition; if it is poorly done it surely merits public disapproval. But we are neither likely to give proper credit where credit is due nor to give proper censure where censure is properly deserved unless we bring the discussion of school matters more definitely into prominence.

There is a financial side to the matter, too that should receive some attention. We are building on the average about one thousand school per year, and must appropriate some $400,000 to do so for many years to come. Such a sum of money is not small, and the money is expended in the building of the school, the expenditure are all in the hands of the school board. Here is a wide field for excellent public service and a correspondingly large opportunity for costly errors—errors for which we would have to pay.

We have already put into school properties probably as much money as we into our water system or our local improvements. Yet we are only at the beginning of things. The standard of the public school board affords an outlook down a long vista of brick and stone piles, running in the course of a few years to a tremendous sum of money. This is a expenditure that must be made, and that must be faced whether it is or is not on the board, but the enormous sum of money that is expended, the properties will be cheap, for the cheapest of all school buildings is the building best adapted for school purposes and the more durable, regardless of the cost of the money outlay. But with a school board incapable either through indifference or lack of knowledge, of getting value for our money there are few ways in which we could sink money faster and to less purpose.

Certainly the poorest of all excuses for neglecting school matters is the fact that our school affairs have been well managed in the past. That they have been well managed is fortunate. In fact, but we are so largely due to the fact that we have had the service of a body of men who were more concerned in the work than the school board. The work then in getting distinction through the discharge of municipal service. To argue that we should continue to rely on chance to always supply us with such men in future is leaving more to chance than we risk in connection with any other public position.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Recent events are sure to have involved the demand on the part of the quest Yale to return a photographic record which once interviewed the Kaiser.

John L. Sullivan is suing for a divorce. John was once a great fighter, but increasing age and constant dissipation broke down the best of them.

Personalities seem to be getting as unpopular as Mr. Rockefeller. Municipal candidates are mutually critical of the other fellow with their exclusive use and benefit.

Bryan is charged with killing more ducks than the law allows in one day. Which leads to the surmise that if he had campaigned with a shotgun he might have made a killing.

Tait and Cannon are reconciled. Now let the Montreal franchise make peace with the Halifax franchise and peace and plain pudding be the motto of the Christmas-tide.

Mr. Rochester says Canadians should perpetuate the Sabbath. To put it in another way, if Canadians had the Sabbath hanging over their heads they would be grinning from the walls of Delhi.

The Ontario Railway Commission has decided that the Toronto Street Railway Company may lay tracks on whatever streets it chooses. Toronto has been called Hoptown, but the franchise given the Street Railway does not seem to display the appropriate qualities.

The Moral and Social Reform Council class British Columbia, New Ontario and Nova Scotia with the Yukon as needing stricter enforcement of laws against immorality. The Council will now become the recipient of sweet-scented bouquets from their stalwart partisans as the Toronto News and the Vancouver Province in the British, France, Russia and Italy are said to be exchanging notes as to Austria's excessive armament, while New Bedford has hinted that a conference is better than a conflict. Once the war clouds are cleared away, the dispute after dropping nothing more disagreeable than a few backfired of printer's ink.

THE LESSON OF THE "GLOBE."

Regina Leader—The Regina District Ledger says: "The Globe Fire Insurance Company seems to have born in insolvency, and to have liabilities assumed in the event of a large conflagration affecting property in which it was interested. With practically no reserve fund, with no deposit lodged with the Government, the company would collapse just as the Globe has."

To properly protect policy holders and the public, the company which deposit might well be automatically increased, and to have liabilities assumed. Increase, only by some such system of guarantee, the confidence of the public of the Globe type is prevented by pursuing the suicidal game which was characteristic of the actions of that ill-fated concern.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

(Blanche E. Holt, Montreal, in Canada West for December.)
A Merry Christmas—how old the world is! What millions of times it sung: Yet where is the man who would remember the message from the east? Where the host that the world should respond? With a quickening thrill to this world-wide bond? A bond it is, that from zone to zone, Englished the earth with cheer; And never a heart can be alone. With the Christmas spirit, and never a bond that will not fit. With a quickening thrill to this world-wide bond? A Merry Christmas—the same as before. Recalling to the same old dream. Recalling the olden time, when the world was in getting distinction through the discharge of municipal service. To argue that we should continue to rely on chance to always supply us with such men

Walter is quite ill. Walter, five eight came a piece in time. Threshing is not finished yet. Red Deer and Bow River still open. Your correspondent had a conversation with the person in French Canada. The French Canadian, who is now in the left Venezuela, had been a series of actions intended to smooth down the conflict of the two assemblies. He gave out orders that all French men should be expelled from the country in 1886 should be expelled. They might return without further formalities, and he declared publicly his admiration for France and his regret for the trouble of which he confessed himself, the cause.

Timber is on the ground for a new bridge across the Sturgeon at Kelly Brothers' farm. It is said there are eighty timber limits in the Saskatchewan since Edmonton.

A. N. McDougall & Co. have purchased 600 acres of native land from the St. Albert Municipal authorities, near the Sturgeon River mill. The purchase price was $100,000. The purchase was made on Monday last with D. Macdonald, who was the highest bidder.

It is reported that two school districts are to be created on the St. Albert settlement, and one on the St. Albert settlement, and one on the St. Albert settlement.

To the Citizens of Edmonton

Having agreed to accept nomination for the position of Mayor for the ensuing year, I wish to state clearly the public policy which I would recommend in certain important matters, viz:—

1. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

2. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

3. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

4. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

5. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

6. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

7. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

8. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

9. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

10. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

11. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

12. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

13. That the City of Edmonton should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future, and should be a city of the future.

TO THE CITIZENS OF EDMONTON.—Gentlemen:—As my term of office expires shortly I again place before the Citizens of Edmonton for their consideration my views regarding all Municipal Matters, which I have already well known except to say that I have no selfish interest in the matter, and that I would follow the measure and be guided by the majority of the citizens. Should my term be disposed to accord me your vote and confidence, you may rest assured that my endeavor will be, as in the past, to do every endeavor to the best of my ability.

Yours faithfully,
D. O. FRASER.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section (160 acres) more or less of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Land Agency of Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, or duly authorized agent or attorney-in-fact, or by a partner in the land.

Homesteaders must reside on and cultivate the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, or on a homestead of at least 40 acres, or on a homestead of at least 20 acres, or on a homestead of at least 10 acres, or on a homestead of at least 5 acres, or on a homestead of at least 2 acres, or on a homestead of at least 1 acre, or on a homestead of at least 1/2 acre, or on a homestead of at least 1/4 acre, or on a homestead of at least 1/8 acre, or on a homestead of at least 1/16 acre, or on a homestead of at least 1/32 acre, or on a homestead of at least 1/64 acre, or on a homestead of at least ROBBED HOUSE OF DEAD BEFORE POLICE'S EYES

Robbed House of Dead. Six Two Intruders Carried Away $100,000 Worth of Jewels and Furs Following Mysterious Death of Mrs. George Wood in Philadelphia—Police Were Present During Robbery.

New York, Dec. 11.—A Philadelphia dispatch to the Morning News says: Jewels valued at $750,000, costly tape, a copy of an old masterpiece valued at $10,000, Paris furs, and open clocks are included in the inventory of valuables reported missing from the residence of Mrs. George Wood, who was found dead October 1, in her home, number 1,229 North Broad street.

The death of Mrs. Wood and the disappearance of her valuables are surrounded by mystery. Mrs. Wood was a conspicuous society woman, numbered among her friends some of Philadelphia's exclusive set, and among the beneficiaries of her will, were titled foreigners and distinguished Americans. She was the widow of George Wood, former American minister to the Royal Argentine Consulate.

Mrs. Wood had been dead possibly twelve hours when the body was discovered. An employee of the American District Telegraph Company made the discovery. Several hours later, Dr. Thomas Montgomery, a physician, after examination of the body reported death due to valvular heart disease. The coroner, deputy and another attaché, Frank Kitt, took possession of the property. Valuable jewels were found lying about in profusion.

Mrs. Wood lived alone and it is supposed she died alone. She was considered eccentric. Though she had hosts of acquaintances, she spent her days and nights in the big house unaccompanied and unattended. After the finding of the body the house, so Mrs. Wood's friends say, was the scene of confusion. Strangers tramped through the rooms, valuables were piled up and taken away. Police sergeants, city hall detectives, coroners, officials, were everywhere. In spite of these, Mrs. Wood's friends say, robbery was committed. There was great surprise when it was known that the trustees under the will of the Grand Trust Company, and two women members of the old family, Mrs. Sophie Berne and Miss Catherine Craig Biddle, had been unable to find many of the valuables enumerated in the will. The trustees have confirmed the report regarding the disappearance of the jewels and works of art.

The man who found Mrs. Wood dead said that when he discovered her she had on two bracelets, a circle of diamonds, which he valued at $10,000. The other, valued at $10,000, a pearl chain set alternately with rubies and diamonds, cannot be found. A count of Leonardo De Vincis's famous "Mona Lisa" painting, more than ten inches long, is missing. This painting, due by one of the master's pupils, was the rarest and best in the wealthy widow's collection. She had placed a valuation of $10,000 on it.

Among the clothes in the will of Mrs. Wood are several leaving personal belongings to prominent society women and to two of her friends, the Countess Aubine Arce Yallie, to whom she left $10,000, and the Countess Serpenti Moretti, Venice, to whom she bequeathed a pearl ring, a diamond crescent pin and her royal ermine coat.

THIS BUSINESS HAZARDOUS TOO
Vice-President of Iron Company Makes This Statement.

New York, Dec. 11.—Despite the large profits which he said the company almost uniformly made since its organization, Vice-President Archibald P. V. of the Temple Iron Company, testifying in the government's suit against the coal roads, today said that the business was a hazardous one.

"There is danger at all times from fire, flood and labor trouble," said Mr. Law.

The relations between the company and the railroads interested in it, the Reading, the Lehigh Valley, the Central of New Jersey, the Lackawanna, the Susquehanna and Western and the Erie, were brought out in Mr. Law's description of the difficulties of the Temple Iron Company during the coal strike.

As a result of the coal strike and general depression in the coal business during the three years preceding 1902, the trustees were forced to call out the guaranteeing railroads for financial help to meet the coal deficiency. As the result, the railroads put in $100,000.

"Did the officials of the railroads make any demand for the return of their money?" the witness asked. "They certainly did," replied Mr. Law.

"But President Baer, of the Reading, chairman of the Temple Iron Company's directors, put them off. I remember that he told them it was all a family affair and that they would have to wait," said Mr. Law.

Outside of the three half year preceding 1902, the witness said the Temple Iron Company had been an extremely profitable business and that now they had a $1,000,000 surplus in the treasury.

Freight Rates Expanded.

Topeka, Kansas, Dec. 11.—A substantial increase in freight rates will shortly be announced by several western roads. The Santa Fe general offices have been working on the new schedule for several weeks, for the purpose of having it complete about January 1st. One of the officials said today: "The work of revising these schedules is a big job, but we have thought it out carefully and feel justified in making several changes. The living expenses of the workmen has been increased, and they demand higher wages; therefore we are compelled to raise our shipment prices, notably on grain and live stock."

Funeral of Chinese Emperor.

Peking, Dec. 11.—The funeral of the Chinese Emperor took place today with a strange mixture of ancient customs with western forms. The cortege was accompanied by 6,000 musicians and 4,000 soldiers. Fully 10,000 people knelt in the street as the procession went by. In the procession were horses with cushioned saddles, camels with cushions on their backs, and other pack animals. It is regarded as essential of the dignity of an emperor to be so consorted to the final resting place. As a concession, foreigners were permitted to witness the funeral.

Earthquake Shakes Coast.

Vancouver, Dec. 11.—An earthquake lasting seven seconds alarmed the people of Squierato, Quebec, Charlottetown, on November 20, but no damage was done.

A HEALTHY HAPPY FAMILY

Since Child's Life was Saved by Psychine.

Mrs. E. Oberlin of Oberlin, Ont., declares that a year has passed her child's life. It was then suffering from Pseudotuberculosis. This was in March, 1907. On August 11th, 1908, 17 months after, the wife writes: "For a number of years my child's health is decidedly good. I give Psychine to each member of my family, eight in number, and I consider their good health in due to Psychine which we recognize as the greatest of all medicines. My husband and myself give our faith to Psychine because it has done so much for us in times past when we had been with sickness. I would be glad if you referred me to a Psychine person and you can give me names for this purpose."

No words of ours could be stronger! This is only one of the thousands of testimonials we have. Psychine is the greatest of all medicines for the throat, lungs and stomach and no home should be without it. Sold by all druggists and stores at 50c and $1.00 bottles. Free trial on application to Dr. T. A. Stearns, Limited, Toronto.
